

Tim Olson Architect

Tim Olson, Registered Architect, joined Banwell Architects in April of 2017. Prior to his current position with Banwell, Tim worked as an Architect for Bensonwood, a Walpole NH-based design-build company that specializes in custom high-performance prefabricated construction. His employment history includes working for Boston-based architecture firms Cambridge Seven Associates, Inc. and as an intern for Sasaki Associates. Tim currently holds a part-time teaching position at Dartmouth College where he instructs a Digital Architecture workshop series each term and an occasional Architectural Design Studio.

Tim attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he graduated in 2011 with a Master of Architecture. He has a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Alfred University, 2003. Tim lives with his wife Amy, two boys – Tucker and Maxwell, and dog Bronte in Lebanon, NH. When not chasing his kids around the yard, Tim can be found on the ski slopes or on his mountain bike.
